Illinois Bike Transportation Plan Listserve:

The Illinois Bike Transportation Plan is rapidly pedaling toward the finish line but it still needs your input. The Illinois Department of Transportation has identified “connectivity” as a guiding theme in the development of this first statewide bicycle plan. Now the department has produced an interactive, online tool that will allow users to suggest new regional bicycle connections, identify current barriers to bicycling in Illinois, and provide general input to planning team.

Your input is important - it will be used to help recommend bicycling connections and improvements throughout the State. Logon to IllinoisBikePlan.com to access and complete the survey. The survey will only be live for 3 weeks so please provide your feedback soon.

The tool allows users to interactively recommend new bikeways by tagging a map of Illinois. Users can also “support” proposed bikeways and identify specific barriers to bicycling such as intersection design, traffic speed, and lack of bicycle parking.

This regional connectivity tool is designed for interactive, web-based use. However, the department is sensitive to those individuals who cannot complete this task online. Please contact the department should you need a paper copy of this tool.
